Report on leafleting exercise in Southampton.

Saturday, 14th March 2015.

Background.

The background to this event was that we wanted to support our members in Southampton and start to establish a nationalist presence in the city. Southampton is one of the UK's major port cities (population 250,000) and it is felt that we should have an active group in the city as soon as possible. Currently, there is one combined branch for Portsmouth and Southampton and the organiser is Stuart Woolger based in Pompey. (Football fans will note that Portsmouth and Southampton are deadly rivals.)

Event.

A leafleting team met our activists in Southampton and together they put out around 800 leaflets. The leaflet was the "Leading policies" one (See attached). We need to educate both our members and the general public on our policies rather than allowing the Marxists to tell the public what we believe!

We did have one "shouter" who was clearly an active red, so that we know that our presence will have been noted in that quarter.

Otherwise the event went quietly and good liaison was achieved with the local activists.

OUR LEADING POLICIES

"The citizen owes duty to the Nation."

One Parliament for the United Kingdom
 The United Kingdom is England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland: an independent, sovereign country. Members of Parliament follow the wishes of their constituents, not a party leader or whip: MPs to be Representatives not Delegates.

Repatriation of all foreigners
 Foreigners that call themselves "immigrants" shall be repatriated to their homelands. For the normal, law-abiding "immigrant", ample time will be allowed for them to settle their affairs and leave the country – 'Humane Repatriation'. Students and key foreign workers will require visas.

Promotion of marriage with the expectation of a family of 3 children
 Achieved by removing the current heavy taxation on the young so that they are able to afford housing and children. The tax system will be altered so that the heavy burden on the young will be moved to the general population.

Abolition of the National debt
 Borrowing money, at interest, to bribe voters shall be abolished. No longer will the elderly be able to leave a vast and damaging debt to the young.

WITHOUT CHILDREN OUR NATION IS DYING!

WHAT SORT OF SOCIETY ARE WE LIVING IN?

Look what they've done to us!

Fifty years of lies and deceit from Tory, Labour and Lib-Dem party politicians have left us with a country and a society that we no longer recognise and no longer want.

Years of mass-immigration, alien take-over, Sharia law, crime, riots, public disorder, continued recession, cutbacks, unemployment, failing schools, the Health Service under pressure, Housing problems and EU laws together with political correctness, have turned large parts of our Britain into a nightmare land.

Who can forget the recent riots: our major cities ravaged by mobs of criminals. Murder, arson, looting and robbery on a scale unprecedented in Britain. The fire brigade was overwhelmed, and the police came under gunfire from the rioters. The authorities completely lost control.

How much more of this can we take? Our British civilisation is under threat.

Is this the future you want?

NF SCOTLAND REMEMBER KRISS DONALD

On Sat 14th March members of National Front Scotland and fellow nationalists visited the Kriss Donald memorial bench to once again pay our respects to young Kriss who was brutally murdered by Pakistani Muslims in 2004.

As usual our Scottish organiser Dave liaised with the police in order for us to receive clearance to visit the memorial bench and pay our respects.

Our travelling members arrived in Glasgow early in the morning and they met up with the local lads about 11am.

We booked taxis to take us to the memorial site and we arrived shortly after 1pm.

We laid our floral tributes and then held a minute's silence for Kriss.

Dave then asked our new West Coast contact if he wanted to say a few words. John then gave a very moving speech highlighting the fact that Kriss was murdered by Pakistanis purely because he was White.

After John concluded his speech a female cyclist who was watching from the side told him that his speech was lovely and that she was moved by his words.

After a short time we headed back into the city centre to hold an informal meeting where we discussed the way forward for the party in the West Coast of Scotland.

We distributed copies of the party magazine "Britain First" to members of the public, customers in a local public house and also to our taxi drivers who took extra copies of the magazine for their friends and families.

Thanks to all of those who travelled to Glasgow for the memorial.

Many photographs were taken and a short video clip of John's speech will be online on Monday.

Once again our members/ supporters did our party proud as we held another trouble free event.

Farage furore over race laws

By Nemesis

You can always tell when it's election time. That's because the Tories start talking tough on immigration. And the biggest Tory of them all nowadays is UKIP's Nigel Farage.

He's playing the race card for all it's worth.

Farage is reported as having said that he would scrap much of the race legislation, and this has predictably provoked howls of protest amongst the chattering classes. On face value it would seem to be a good idea, but on second glance, Farage only appears to be saying that British employers should be able to discriminate in favour of British born job applicants (which could mean virtually anyone nowadays as just about anybody can become 'British').

"I didn't mention race at all, as a party we are colour blind. If I talked to my children about the question of race, they wouldn't know what I was talking about," Farage was at pains to emphasise.

That makes his comments far less controversial than first supposed.

And it comes on top of news that UKIP is to ditch plans to limit net immigration to 50,000 per year. "UKIP is not against immigration," Farage told the European Parliament in December 2013: "We welcome immigration, we want immigration."

Which just goes to show how confused, dishonest and downright devious UKIP has become: The party plays the numbers game and says the issue is all about 'space and not race', etc, but it can't (or won't) acknowledge that immigration is completely changing the character of the country beyond all recognition.

For example, if Britain was populated by 60 million Chinese, or 60 million Nigerians, or 60 million Eskimos – instead of 60 million ethnic Britons - it would have a totally different culture and civilisation than the one it has always known.

Most Ukipers know this, but they are far too gutless to admit it, or do anything about it (except moan).

Yes, the race laws should be scrapped – all of them. They were not introduced to protect racial minorities – as is widely supposed – but rather to intimidate, terrorise and silence the indigenous majority population into accepting the mass invasion and occupation of their country, which was illegally imposed by the political elite.

Farage will no more scrap the race laws than he will stop immigration: But he knows how deeply unpopular they are, and savvy enough to realise that tough talking on both subjects is the surest way of gaining seats for his party.

That is his sole motivation - let no one be fooled.

ISIS Hunting Club

Ex British Squadies off to Help the Kurds

An eight strong volunteer unit of former British servicemen are preparing to travel to Syria to fight against militants from the Islamic State terrorist organisation, it has been claimed.

The ex-soldiers - some of whom have Special Forces training - call themselves the International Volunteer Force and will fight alongside the Kurdish resistance in the north of the country.

Images posted on social media purportedly show the men taking part in special training exercises in Europe ahead of their journey to Syria, where they join an estimated 100 other Western volunteers to have joined the Kurdish peshmerga and YPG armies in the fight against ISIS terrorists.

The images were posted on a Facebook page titled 'Sgt Tom', which carries the colours of the Kurdish flag and disguises the faces of all the men photographed.

The images show the men wearing military fatigues and clothing suited to fighting in a desert environment while clutching large assault rifles.

Alongside captions making threats towards ISIS militants, one image appears to act as the group's -

- manifesto, identifying the leader as the aforementioned 'Sgt Tom' who says he is a former serviceman travelling to defend his 'defeat you [ISIS] and the evil you stand for'.

'Poor foreign policies, weak government and law have allowed the spread of a cancerous, perverted form of Islam to our shores,' he adds.

He goes on to state that ISIS 'do not have the right to claim Islam as their own property to pervert and undermine a magnificent that to true Muslims, is based on peace'.

'I am not right wing, nor fascist, I am not anti-Islam nor anti any religion,' Sgt Tom says before adding 'I am a free man in a free country and free to fight for freedom and democracy'.

'Your heinous crimes have stirred my inner morality, I will not turn against peaceful Muslims but I am sickened by what you [ISIS] do and as such...I volunteer my skill-set to the people of Kurdistan.'

The group have called themselves IVFOR (International Volunteer Force) but some of them are understood to have tattoos bearing the moniker 'ISIS Hunting Club'.

They will be leaving 'within weeks' to join the YPG militias that have so bravely defended northern Syria against ISIS in recent months - most notably in the town of Kobane, which the terrorists besieged for four months before being flushed out.

Speaking to the Evening Standard newspaper, one of the former soldiers said the group had bought uniforms and are training every day and have even created a lightning sword based logo and adopted the Latin motto 'Cita et Certa', meaning Swift and Sure.

'I and colleagues have formed a small unit which is open for any English-speaking individuals from any nation,' the former soldier was quoted by the newspaper as saying.

He added that the group had already raised more than £13,000 to fund their trip - with one of the men selling his sports car to raise the money.

There are estimated to be as many as 100 Western volunteers fighting ISIS in Syria and Iraq, including ex-public schoolboy Macer Gifford who has joined the fight against ISIS and insisted he would never be captured alive vowing: 'I've got a grenade in my pocket and I'll take them with me'.

Many of the Britons who have travelled to fight the terrorists are ex-military and have joined the Kurdish People's Protection Unit - known as the YPG.

This group have a designated foreign legion for Western fighters, known as the Lions of Rojava, which is believed to be led by American Jordan Matson.

Last month 25-year-old Konstandinos Erik Scurfield became the first Briton to die in action against ISIS, having joined the Lions of Rojava within days of leaving the British army last November.

The former Royal Marine from Barnsley, South Yorkshire, was hit by mortar fire while fighting alongside Kurdish forces near the Syrian city of Qamishli.

Over the weekend his body was returned to his family in a special ceremony attended by hundreds of Syrian Kurds. His coffin, which was draped in both the Kurdish flag and the Union Jack, was handed over to his father and uncle in a special ceremony on the Syria-Iraq border.
